STRATEGY-FIRST CONTENT PLAN

Clarity before volume.

Easywurld · Monday 2 November–Tuesday 1 December 2026

22 main weekday posts. Four formats. Eight weekend review and batching days. One useful next action per post.

At a glance	Active plan
Audience	Owner-led small businesses in Lagos and across Nigeria
Objective	Relevant WhatsApp enquiries, well-matched DIY pack sales and scoped project briefs
Formats	10 AI talking heads · 5 screen demos · 5 carousels · 2 original static posts
Pillars	Teach 9 · Trust 6 · Show 4 · Offer 3
Slot	18:30 Africa/Lagos (WAT), weekdays; a test hypothesis, not a proven best time
Status	Draft copy and starter graphics. No live scheduling or generated owner avatar.

The avatar gate

Blocked: verified owner photo and explicit likeness/voice permission not supplied. Do not use the fictional demo founder image.

The Monday carousel can launch without an avatar. Every video brief includes a non-avatar fallback. No private CV, identity source or customer record belongs in this public repository.

01 / Strategy

Make the pieces agree.

Easywurld helps small businesses make the message, website, content and follow-up work together. Lead with a problem the owner recognises, show a practical fix, then offer one next step.

The four pillars

Pillar	Posts	Job
Teach	9	Solve one small problem with a rewrite, checklist, reply structure or workflow.
Show	4	Make the thinking visible through actual, clearly labelled samples.
Trust	6	Explain the process, limitations, ownership and responsible AI use.
Offer	3	Help the right buyer choose using real contents, price and exclusions.

The format roles

Format	Count	Use
AI talking head	10	Direct explanation or point of view. Approved likeness/voice, restrained delivery, visible disclosure.
Screen demo	5	Record the actual repo sample or calendar. Keep concept/sample labels and avoid invented results.
Carousel	5	Sequence, checklist or comparison. Five slides, one idea per slide.
Relatable static	2	Original recognition humour with a useful resolution in the caption.

The modern talking-head pattern

There is no single official “2026 TikTok look”. This plan uses a creator-led, vertical, immediately relevant pattern: face and problem in the first frame; a specific hook in 0–3 seconds; one concrete fix; one relevant cutaway; one final action. Test concise 25–45 second explanations rather than stretching a slogan or rushing a useful answer.

Chest-up, eye-level, natural light, quiet background. Preserve natural skin texture. Use a small reframe or cutaway when the idea changes, not a zoom every second. Corrected phrase captions, no flashing karaoke, no fake podcast microphone, no long logo end card.

TikTok creative guidance recommends quick hooks, relevant problem–solution stories, human delivery and captions. These are creative principles, not reach guarantees. Source: ads.tiktok.com/business/en/guides/what-is-ad-creative-guide

One post, one action

Use a save for a useful checklist, a specific question for conversation, one keyword for a DIY pack, or a link plus problem for a project brief. Do not ask for every action at once.

Trust and measurement

All portfolio work is concept/sample. No invented testimonials, rankings, client results or campaign metrics. Record only available analytics and real enquiries. Compare similar formats and change one variable at a time. The final posts contain a review method, not a pre-written success claim.

02 / The dated run

Thirty days, without daily overload.

One main post per weekday. Optional platform reuses are separate CSV rows and are not additional core ideas. Weekend tasks are operational, not compulsory feed posts.

Avatar and voice

Supply the correct owner-approved source and explicit permission. Check the provider’s consent process, commercial rights, retention/deletion controls and export limits. Test one 10-second clip before the batch. Approve the voice separately and check Easywurld, Lagos, naira, WhatsApp, SEO and prices. If the avatar is wrong, use the fallback.

CapCut edit order

1. Import approved sections into a 9:16 project. 2. Remove the empty intro and long pauses. 3. Keep the hook in the first frame. 4. Add one relevant worksheet or screen cutaway. 5. Generate and correct captions. 6. Add the persistent AI label. 7. Mix voice clearly; music is optional and must be licensed. 8. Check the actual platform safe-area preview. 9. Export 1080×1920 MP4/H.264 at 30 fps. 10. Watch with sound, muted and at thumbnail size.

Disclosure and rights

TikTok requires disclosure of realistic AI-generated media, including a person portrayed saying something they did not say. Enable the AI-generated setting and keep the on-video label and caption context. The help page describes More options in the app. Source: support.tiktok.com/en/using-tiktok/creating-videos/ai-generated-content

Scheduling

TikTok’s official scheduler announcement describes a 15-minute to 10-day window and says changes require deleting and re-uploading. Check current availability in your account. One business. One clear story.

Monday 02 November 2026 · 18:30 WAT · Instagram · Carousel · Trust

Audience problem: The website, social posts and customer replies sound like different businesses.

Objective: Introduce the studio through its point of view, not a logo animation.

One CTA: Comment one word: message, page or follow-up.

Hook / first frame

Your business shouldn't need five different explanations.

Exact slide copy

Slide 1: Your business shouldn't need five different explanations.
One clear story. Wherever customers meet you.

Slide 2: One business. Too many voices.
Your website says one thing. Your posts say another.

Slide 3: The gap is the problem.
Your customer replies say something else.

Slide 4: Make it agree.
Make the message, page, content and follow-up agree.

Slide 5: That's the work.
Easywurld
Simplify. Optimize. Grow.
The message, page, content and follow-up. Together.
What needs clarity: message, page or follow-up?

Caption

A website, a content plan and a customer reply should tell the same story. Easywurld is a small digital studio in Lagos bringing those pieces together for small businesses. This month, we're sharing practical fixes and showing the thinking behind our sample work. What feels least clear in your business right now: the message, the page or the follow-up?

#Easywurld #LagosBusiness #SmallBusinessNigeria #MarketingClarity

Visual and edit

Five 1080×1350 cream slides. Deep-green serif headline, one terracotta underline on slide 4. Real Easywurld mark on the final slide. No stock people.

Set the supplied text in the editor. Hold each slide long enough to read it twice. Export five PNGs; do not ask an image model to spell the copy.

Filled production prompt

```
Design a five-slide Easywurld carousel about one consistent business story. Use the exact supplied slide copy, cream #FAE7C7, deep green #0A4937, Inter-style support text and one terracotta #9E4E2C underline. Flat editorial layout, generous whitespace. Use the real logo file, not a generated mark. No people or stock photography.
```

Disclosure: No realistic synthetic person/voice planned. Reassess if the production method changes.

Fallback: Publish as a text-led LinkedIn post if design time runs short; do not postpone the start date for an avatar.

Destination to verify: https://website-builder-portfolio.vercel.app/about Expected asset: assets/EW-001/EW-001_carousel.zip — production target, not a finished-file claim. Status: Draft; not scheduled.

Supplied starter: marketing/assets/launch-week/EW-001_carousel.zip — review before publishing.

Optional Facebook copy

Your website, your posts and your customer replies should sound like the same business. That is the gap Easywurld works on: the message, the page, the content and the follow-up. Which of those feels least clear in your business today?

Optional Linkedin copy

A business can have a good website, active social pages and busy customer chats while still telling three different stories. Easywurld brings the message, design, content and follow-up into one plan. Our portfolio is concept/sample work, and we label it that way. This month we are sharing the thinking behind it. Which part of your customer journey needs the most clarity?

04 / Production brief · EW-002

More posts won't fix an unclear offer.

Tuesday 03 November 2026 · 18:30 WAT · TikTok · AI talking head · Teach

Audience problem: The owner keeps posting but cannot explain the offer in one sentence.

Objective: Teach a small message fix and establish the studio's useful, direct tone.

One CTA: Save this for your next profile review.

Hook / first frame

Before you write another post, finish this sentence.

Exact spoken script

Before you write another post, finish this sentence: I help a specific customer get a useful result with what I actually sell. Here is an example: I help busy homeowners book a reliable cleaner for their apartment. Now check your bio and your latest post. Do they both make that offer clear? If not, fix the sentence before you make more content. Clarity first. Volume second.

Shot / edit order

- 0–3s: face + “Finish this sentence.”
- 3–13s: show the three-part sentence; label it EXAMPLE.
- 13–25s: cut to a simple bio mock-up, also labelled EXAMPLE.
- 25–34s: return to face; “Clarity first. Volume second.”

Caption

Try this before your next post: I help [customer] get [result] with [offer]. Replace the brackets with your real business details before publishing. If your bio and your content point in different directions, fix the message first. Save this for your next profile review.

AI-generated presenter; script reviewed by Easywurld.
#SmallBusinessTips #LagosSME #BusinessMessaging #Easywurld

Visual and edit

Chest-up approved owner avatar, eye-level, plain warm background. Insert a three-line message worksheet. No fake office, microphone or client screenshots.

Target 30–38 seconds after recording. Keep the first frame on the face. Use one worksheet cutaway and one gentle reframe. Correct captions and keep the AI-presenter label visible.

```
Create a vertical 9:16 talking-head video using only the separately approved owner likeness and voice. Deliver the supplied script exactly, conversationally, with restrained natural gestures and steady eye contact. Chest-up, eye-level camera, soft natural light, quiet warm-neutral room. Preserve the person's appearance. Do not add a microphone, office props, logos or claims. Leave space for editor-added captions and the AI disclosure. No invented likeness if the approved source is missing.
```

Disclosure: Required for planned synthetic voice/presenter: AI presenter · Easywurld. Enable the platform setting; adapt if the final method changes.

Fallback: Use the same script as a five-slide text carousel, or record the owner normally with permission. Do not substitute the demo founder photo.

Destination to verify: https://website-builder-portfolio.vercel.app/offers/clear-message-workbook

Expected asset: assets/EW-002/EW-002_talking-head.mp4 — production target, not a finished-file claim. Status: Draft; not scheduled.

Optional Instagram reuse: 19:00 WAT. Check crop, audio rights and disclosure.

A homepage before-and-after you can actually inspect.

Wednesday 04 November 2026 · 18:30 WAT · TikTok · Screen demo · Show

Audience problem: A homepage sounds busy but never says what the business does.

Objective: Show the thinking using a real, clearly labelled repo demo.

One CTA: Open the sample and judge the thinking.

Hook / first frame

This homepage rewrite changes the words. Not the results.

Exact spoken script

This is a sample homepage rewrite by Easywurld. Westcombe Partners is fictional, so there are no conversion results to show you. Watch the opening instead. The before version is vague. The after version gives the visitor a clearer starting point. Toggle between them and ask three questions: what do they do, who is it for, and what happens next? That's a structural review you can do on your own page today.

Shot / edit order

- 0–3s: face or cursor on the Before/After toggle; CONCEPT / SAMPLE visible.
- 3–12s: show the before headline at a readable crop.
- 12–24s: click After; highlight the opening structure.
- 24–38s: show the three review questions; no performance claim.

Caption

A real look at our sample homepage rewrite. Westcombe Partners is fictional. No A/B test, conversion lift or client result is being claimed. Try the same three questions on your page: what do you do, who is it for, and what should a visitor do next?

Concept project · sample build.

AI voiceover; script reviewed by Easywurld.

#WebDesignNigeria #HomepageTips #Easywurld #SmallBusinessTips

Visual and edit

Screen recording of the actual Before/After demo. Add a persistent concept/sample label. Crop to the headline and toggle, not an unreadable full desktop page.

Record at a readable browser zoom. Use the owner's voiceover or a licensed synthetic voice with disclosure. Pause on each headline. Do not animate fake analytics or add a claimed uplift.

```
Produce a 9:16 screen-led walkthrough from the supplied real Easywurld demo recording. Show the Before/After toggle and readable headline crops in the supplied order. Keep 'Concept project · sample build' visible. Add the exact script as voiceover only after voice approval, accurate captions and three short review questions. No fabricated metrics, client identity or performance claims.
```

Real source to record: /demo/clear-homepage-rewrite/index.html

Disclosure: Required for planned synthetic voice/presenter: AI voice · Easywurld. Enable the platform setting; adapt if the final method changes.

Fallback: Use real screenshots in a carousel with the same sample label if screen recording is unavailable.

Destination to verify: https://website-builder-portfolio.vercel.app/projects/clear-homepage-rewrite

Expected asset: assets/EW-003/EW-003_homepage-demo.mp4 — production target, not a finished-file claim. Status: Draft; not scheduled.

Optional Instagram reuse: 19:00 WAT. Check crop, audio rights and disclosure.

Optional Facebook copy

We made a before-and-after homepage demo you can inspect. The business is fictional and there are no performance results to report. The useful part is the structure: what the business does, who it helps and the next step. Open the sample and try those questions on your own page. Concept project · sample build.

Optional Linkedin copy

A portfolio sample should show the thinking without pretending to be a client case study. Our Westcombe Partners homepage rewrite is fictional. The demo lets you compare the opening copy before and after, with no claimed conversion improvement. Review your own opening against three questions: what do you do, who is it for, and what happens next? Concept project · sample build.

A price is not the end of the reply.

Thursday 05 November 2026 · 18:30 WAT · TikTok · AI talking head · Teach

Audience problem: The seller sends a number and the chat goes quiet.

Objective: Give a usable reply structure without promising a sale.

One CTA: Save the three-part reply structure.

Hook / first frame

> If you sell on WhatsApp, don't send the price alone.

Exact spoken script

> If you sell on WhatsApp, don't send the price alone. Give three things: the price, what it includes, and one sensible next question. For example: the bag is twenty thousand naira, delivery is separate, and it comes in black or brown. Which colour would you like? That's an example, so use your real price and terms. You're making the next step clear, not pressuring someone to buy.

Shot / edit order

- 0–3s: “Don't send the price alone.”
- 3–12s: three lines: price / scope / next question.
- 12–27s: fictional chat example with EXAMPLE label.
- 27–36s: “Clear next step. No pressure.”

Caption

> Price + what it includes + one useful next question. Adapt the example to your actual price, delivery terms and product. This can make a reply clearer; it cannot guarantee a sale. Save the structure for your next enquiry.
>
> AI-generated presenter; script reviewed by Easywurld.
> #WhatsAppBusiness #LagosSME #CustomerServiceTips #Easywurld

Visual and edit

Approved avatar plus an original, clearly labelled example chat. No real customer names, numbers or screenshots.

Keep the example on screen long enough to read. Highlight only price, scope and question. Use a quiet cutaway, not a barrage of message sounds.

```
Create a natural chest-up AI talking-head video from the approved owner likeness and voice, delivering the supplied price-reply script exactly. Use a calm, helpful tone, not a sales shout. Reserve editor space for a fictional chat example labelled EXAMPLE. Do not generate real customer data or imply a guaranteed sale. Keep gestures restrained and eye contact steady.
```

Disclosure: Required for planned synthetic voice/presenter: AI presenter · Easywurld. Enable the platform setting; adapt if the final method changes.

Fallback: Turn the three-part reply into a static checklist with the same example and caption.

Friday 06 November 2026 · 18:30 WAT · Instagram · Relatable static · Teach

Audience problem: Researching content has replaced deciding what to say.

Objective: Create recognition, then give a small way out.

One useful answer beats another moodboard.

Caption

Sometimes the next post is already in your customer conversations. Pick one real question you can answer without sharing private details. Write the answer in three sentences. Add one example. That's a useful starting point. You don't need another moodboard before you begin.

Visual and edit

Original cream text meme. Large deep-green serif first line, smaller practical resolution, one terracotta period. No borrowed meme image or implied customer screenshot.

Export 1080×1350. Keep the joke readable at thumbnail size. The caption supplies the useful action; do not add a hard sell to the image.

Filled production prompt

```
Create one original Easywurld text-led static post, 4:5. Exact headline: '27 tabs open. Still no post.'
Resolution: 'Close 26. Answer one customer question.' Cream background, deep-green serif headline, one terracotta accent. Editorial, dry humour, no stock image, no copied meme and no fake notification UI.
```

Disclosure: No realistic synthetic person/voice planned. Reassess if the production method changes.

Fallback: Post the words as a plain text update; no design dependency.

Why our portfolio says sample.

Monday 09 November 2026 · 18:30 WAT · TikTok · AI talking head · Trust

Audience problem: Prospects cannot tell sample work from real client engagements.

Objective: Build trust by explaining the evidence honestly.

One CTA: Look at a sample and ask about the decisions.

Hook / first frame

> Every project in our portfolio has a label: sample.

Exact spoken script

> Every project in our portfolio has a label: concept or sample. That means we made it to show our thinking. It does not mean a client hired us, or that it produced a sales increase. We'd rather you judge the writing, the design and the decisions than a wall of logos we haven't earned. Look at the work. Ask why we made each choice. And if someone shows you a result, ask what evidence sits behind it.

Shot / edit order

- 0–3s: “Every project is labelled sample.”
- 3–14s: show a real project card with its concept/sample label.
- 14–27s: return to presenter; explain what the sample proves and does not.
- 27–37s: “Judge the thinking. Ask for evidence.”

Visual and edit

Approved avatar with a real portfolio-card cutaway. Keep the existing sample label readable. Persistent AI-presenter disclosure.

Use one portfolio cutaway, not a fast montage. Do not cover the sample label with captions. Read the final sentence slowly.

```
Create a sincere, restrained talking-head explanation using the approved owner likeness and voice. Deliver the exact script about concept/sample portfolio work. Use a quiet warm-neutral background and natural eye contact. Do not add client logos, awards, testimonials or performance figures. Leave room for a real portfolio screenshot and AI disclosure.
```

Disclosure: Required for planned synthetic voice/presenter: AI presenter · Easywurld. Enable the platform setting; adapt if the final method changes.

Fallback: Owner-recorded vertical video or a carousel of actual sample labels with the same explanation.

Expected asset: assets/EW-008/EW-008_sample-work.mp4 — production target, not a finished-file claim. Status: Draft; not scheduled.

Optional Instagram reuse: 19:00 WAT. Check crop, audio rights and disclosure.

Optional Facebook copy

Our portfolio is made of concept projects and sample builds. They show our writing, design and decision-making, not client engagements or measured results. We label them clearly. You can inspect the work and ask why each choice was made.

Optional Linkedin copy

A young studio should be clear about its evidence. Easywurld's portfolio consists of concept projects and sample builds, not client case studies. We show the problem, the choices and the limitations rather than inventing logos or performance figures. Judge the thinking, and ask for evidence when anyone claims a result.

A follow-up that knows when to stop.

Tuesday 10 November 2026 · 18:30 WAT · Instagram · Carousel · Teach

Audience problem: Follow-up either never happens or turns into repeated chasing.

Objective: Teach boundaries and a trackable next action.

One CTA: Save the stop rule.

Hook / first frame

A follow-up system needs a stop rule.

Exact slide copy

Slide 1: A follow-up system needs a stop rule.

Slide 2: Write down the enquiry and what the customer actually needs.

Slide 3: Agree a useful next check-in.
Give them a reason to reply.

Slide 4: If there's no response, send a brief closing note. Then stop.

Slide 5: Helpful beats persistent.
Save this for your next follow-up.

Caption

A follow-up should help the customer take a next step, not make them feel hunted. Record the context, make any check-in useful and respect a no. What a follow-up workflow should make visible.

Wednesday 11 November 2026 · 18:30 WAT · TikTok · Screen demo · Show

Audience problem: The owner cannot see which enquiry needs attention next.

Objective: Demonstrate a sample workflow without pretending messages were sent.

One CTA: Inspect the sample workflow.

Hook / first frame

A follow-up workflow should show the next action.

Exact spoken script

Here's our follow-up concept. It isn't a live campaign, and nothing here was sent to a real customer. Open a message and look for three things: why you're checking in, what you're asking, and when the sequence stops. The point is to make the next action visible without turning follow-up into spam. A system should help you remember the person, not hide them behind automation.

Shot / edit order

- 0–3s: actual demo headline; CONCEPT / SAMPLE visible.
- 3–14s: open the first example message.
- 14–28s: inspect the purpose, question and stop rule.

What happens after you message Easywurld.

Thursday 12 November 2026 · 18:30 WAT · TikTok · AI talking head · Trust

Audience problem: The owner expects a pushy sales call or cannot tell what the next step is.

Objective: Explain the real project enquiry process.

One CTA: Send your link and the problem you want to solve.

Hook / first frame

> You don't need a perfect brief to message us.

Exact spoken script

> You don't need a perfect brief to message us. Send your business link and one sentence about what you're trying to solve. We'll ask questions if we need more detail, or tell you honestly if it isn't a fit. For a project, the next step is a short conversation and a written plan with scope, timing and price before work starts. If all you need is a self-guided pack, we can point you to that instead.

Shot / edit order

- 0–3s: “You don't need a perfect brief.”
- 3–14s: show link + one-sentence problem.
- 14–28s: questions → short conversation → written plan.
- 28–38s: DIY pack versus custom project distinction.

Fix the sentence before rebuilding the site.

Monday 16 November 2026 · 18:30 WAT · TikTok · AI talking head · Teach

Audience problem: The owner wants a redesign when the offer itself is unclear.

Objective: Explain the studio's Understand → Simplify → Build → Optimize order.

One CTA: Save this for your next website brief.

Hook / first frame

A new website can't rescue a sentence nobody understands.

Exact spoken script

A new website can't rescue a sentence nobody understands. Before you pay for a redesign, write down what you sell, who buys it and why they should choose you. Then ask someone outside the business to explain it back to you. If they can't, the message needs work. Our order is simple: understand, simplify, build, optimize. Sometimes the first improvement is a sentence, not a new template.

Shot / edit order

- 0–3s: “A new website can't rescue this sentence.”

Local visibility starts with correct information.

Tuesday 17 November 2026 · 18:30 WAT · TikTok · Screen demo · Show

Audience problem: The business has inconsistent hours, contact details and service descriptions.

Objective: Show a practical local-search audit without ranking promises.

One CTA: Inspect the local visibility sample.

Hook / first frame

Before chasing rankings, check your opening hours.

Exact spoken script

Before chasing rankings, check your opening hours. This is our local visibility concept, not a campaign we ran for a client. Look at the audit: wrong hours, an old phone number, a duplicate listing. These are example issues, but the check is real. Compare your business profile, website and social pages. Make the name, contact details, hours and services consistent. That's maintenance you can start before buying another promotion.

Use questions you can answer honestly, and remove private details. The calendar makes the work repeatable. It does not need to fill every hour with posting.

Shot / edit order

- 0–3s: show the question “How do I make my business clearer online?”
- 3–14s: EW-002, a direct message explanation.
- 14–27s: EW-019, a practical pre-promotion checklist.
- 27–40s: EW-003, a labelled homepage demonstration; show the weekend batch slot.

This calendar is an Easywurld sample plan. One customer problem can support a direct answer, a checklist and a demonstration. Adapt the idea to each format instead of copying the same words everywhere. Our active calendar uses 22 main posts across 30 days, with weekends for review and batching. The ENGINE pack is a DIY planning resource; it is not finished custom content.

Record the actual new calendar and the EW-002, EW-019 and EW-003 briefs. Use one question consistently: How do I make my business clearer online? Do not show private notes or imply the posts have already gone live.

Use the three real briefs in order: EW-002 explanation, EW-019 checklist, EW-003 demo. The calendar is the evidence; no fake scheduling confirmation.

```
Create a screen-led walkthrough of the supplied Easywurld calendar. Show one customer question becoming a talking-head answer, a checklist carousel and a labelled homepage demo. Use the actual EW-002, EW-019 and EW-003 briefs. Keep private notes out of frame. Add the exact approved narration and captions; do not imply posts are already scheduled or published.

What to review after a month of posting.

Monday 30 November 2026 · 18:30 WAT · TikTok · AI talking head · Trust

Audience problem: The owner judges the month by likes or invents a success story.

Objective: Close the learning loop without pre-written performance claims.

One CTA: Comment the question you want answered next.

Hook / first frame

A month of posting should leave you with better questions.

Exact spoken script

A month of posting should leave you with better questions. Which problem made people stop scrolling? Which explanation did they watch to the end? Which post led to a real business conversation? Look at your own analytics and enquiry records, not just the likes. Then keep the useful subjects, change one thing at a time and plan the next batch. We're reviewing this account the same way. No invented victory lap.

Shot / edit order

- 0–3s: “Better questions, not an invented victory lap.”
- 3–16s: attention / watch time / relevant enquiries.
- 16–29s: check actual records; keep what helped.
- 29–39s: change one variable and batch again.

Review the records you actually have: watch time, saves, shares, profile visits and relevant enquiries. Leave unavailable metrics blank. This post is a review method, not a claim about this account's results. What question would you like us to answer next?

Approved avatar and a blank review worksheet. Do not insert numbers unless they come from actual account records and are approved for publication.

Keep the worksheet generic. If adding real results later, date-stamp them and retain the source. Otherwise publish the method exactly as written.

```
Create a reflective AI talking-head video using the approved owner likeness and voice. Deliver the supplied script exactly. Use a quiet background and natural pacing. Show a blank review worksheet only; do not generate analytics, audience counts, sales results or testimonials. Keep the AI-presenter disclosure visible.

Choose your next step by the work you need.

Tuesday 01 December 2026 · 18:30 WAT · TikTok · AI talking head · Offer

Audience problem: The prospect does not know whether to use a resource, ask a question or request a project.

Objective: End with a clear, low-pressure route into the business.

One CTA: Choose a pack or send a short project brief.

Hook / first frame

> You don't need to buy everything to fix one thing.

Exact spoken script

> You don't need to buy everything to fix one thing. If you want to do it yourself, choose the pack that matches the problem. If you need someone to build or write it, send your link and a short brief for a scoped project. And if you're not sure, start with the question. The offers page explains what's inside each resource. Custom work is separate and gets a written plan before it starts. One clear next step is enough.

Shot / edit order

- 0–3s: “Fix one thing first.”
- 3–15s: DIY resource versus custom project.
- 15–28s: show the real offers page and contact route.
- 28–39s: “One clear next step is enough.”

Approved avatar with two simple route cards: DIY / custom project. Show the real offers page briefly. No bundle pressure or fake deadline.

Keep both routes equally clear. Verify the URL and contact route on the day. End on the presenter and the single next-step line, not a long logo animation.

```
Create a clear closing AI talking-head video using the approved owner likeness and voice. Read the supplied script exactly. Show two editor-added routes, DIY resources and custom projects, without implying they include the same work. Warm neutral background, calm delivery, restrained gestures and visible AI disclosure. No invented offer, deadline or guarantee.

Leave room to reply and improve.

Saturday 07 November · Reply and listen

Spend 20 minutes answering real comments and enquiries. Save useful recurring questions without sharing private details. No compulsory feed post.

Sunday 08 November · Batch week two

Review EW-001 to EW-005 after 24 hours where possible. Produce EW-008 to EW-012, check claims and disclosures, then schedule only finished assets within the platform's available window.

Saturday 14 November · Review the first full week

Record available metrics and real enquiries. Note which problem earned useful responses. Do not infer a winning format from one post.

Sunday 15 November · Batch week three

Produce EW-015 to EW-019. Confirm the approved avatar is ready; otherwise use each brief's non-avatar fallback. Schedule approved assets only.

Saturday 21 November · Check the customer journey

Test the website, offers page, profile link and WhatsApp route. Confirm pack fulfilment and answer outstanding enquiries.

Sunday 22 November · Batch week four

Produce EW-022 to EW-026. Recheck prices, inclusions and sample labels. Schedule the next approved batch, not the whole month by assumption.

Saturday 28 November · Read the records

Review actual watch time, saves, shares, profile visits and enquiries. Leave unavailable metrics blank. Choose one change to test next.

Sunday 29 November · Prepare the final two posts

Produce EW-029 and EW-030. Use the review method, not invented results. Verify contact routes and plan the next month from real questions.

Before Monday: final gates

Confirm public handles, live website, WhatsApp and offer fulfilment. Add and test the profile destination. Approve the owner likeness/voice or select fallbacks. Review every price, inclusion and sample label. Produce the first batch. Check captions, pronunciation, crop, disclosure and audio on a phone. Schedule only approved assets. Record actual URLs and results afterwards.
