If your page has gone quiet, it is rarely a lack of talent. It is a lack of a repeatable post.

The move: Find the hungry crowd.

A relevant audience with a real problem matters more than a broad audience.

What that looks like on a Nigerian page:

Before: 'Marketing for everyone.'
After: 'For Lagos owners who sell by WhatsApp and lose track of follow-ups.'

The part most people skip: do not steal the words. Steal the structure, then write your own example from your own customer.

Source: The Boron Letters. Attributed, not quoted at length.

The five pages are attached as a document. Page one is the cover LinkedIn shows on mobile.

Three hours on meet Easywurld: Pricing philosophy today. Here is what I got wrong first.

DIY packs and custom projects are different.
The packs are self-guided resources.
Custom work needs a written scope and quote.
We do not pretend a ■5,000 pack is a done-for-you build.

What I have learned building it: the work is rarely the hard part. The hard part is making the message, the website, the content and the follow-up say the same thing.

When they disagree, the customer does not argue. They just go quiet.

So I am posting the process here, including the parts that are still unfinished. No wahala — that is the point of building in public.

What is the one thing in your business that keeps disagreeing with itself?

THEN POST AS THE FIRST COMMENT:

Marketing myth: Only Reels work now.

Verdict: False.

Short video is useful, but carousels and static posts can earn saves, shares and search visibility. Format should match the idea.

How we would test it:
Publish one idea as a Reel and a carousel, then compare saves and enquiries

Keep the useful part. Drop the absolute.

That is the whole method: one claim, one verdict, one test small enough to run this week.

Somebody will disagree with this, and that is fine.

Follow-up needs a stop rule.

This is why The Chat-to-Customer Playbook exists as a ■5,000 DIY pack: most owners do not need an agency this month. They need the scripts, the tracker and the routine, and they need it before Friday.

I am deliberate about the boundary. It is not custom work. It does not guarantee sales. It helps you convert more of the enquiries you already get.

Saying the limit out loud has cost me nothing and saved a lot of awkward conversations.

What does your price reply say after the number?
