Most optician pages post the finished work and nothing else. That is the whole problem.

The move: Message mining.

Collect problems, objections and desired outcomes before writing headlines.

What that looks like on a Nigerian page:

Ask: 'What almost stopped you from booking?' Use the pattern, not private quotes.

The part most people skip: do not steal the words. Steal the structure, then write your own example from your own customer.

Source: Copyhackers. Attributed, not quoted at length.

The five pages are attached as a document. Page one is the cover LinkedIn shows on mobile.

Three hours on meet Easywurld: Message worksheet today. Here is what I got wrong first.

I help a specific customer.
Get a useful result.
With what I actually sell.
Check the bio and the latest post.

What I have learned building it: the work is rarely the hard part. The hard part is making the message, the website, the content and the follow-up say the same thing.

When they disagree, the customer does not argue. They just go quiet.

So I am posting the process here, including the parts that are still unfinished. No wahala — that is the point of building in public.

What is the one thing in your business that keeps disagreeing with itself?

Short copy always wins. We put it on trial.

Verdict: It depends.

A short hook can earn attention, but a complex offer may need explanation.
Brevity is not the same as clarity.

How we would test it:
Keep the hook short and give the offer enough detail to decide

Keep the useful part. Drop the absolute.

That is the whole method: one claim, one verdict, one test small enough to run

A question I asked five business owners this week.

Does it guarantee reach? No. Platform features change, and no plan can guarantee reach, followers or sales.

This is why The Clear Homepage Blueprint exists as a ■5,000 DIY pack: most owners do not need an agency this month. They need the scripts, the tracker and the routine, and they need it before Friday.

I am deliberate about the boundary. It is not custom work. It does not guarantee sales. It helps you convert more of the enquiries you already get.

Saying the limit out loud has cost me nothing and saved a lot of awkward conversations.

What is the question customers ask you that you dread answering?
